B.W.C. MEETS WITH MRS. BRYAN MONDAY EVENING

Mrs. Baxter Bryan was hostess to the B.W.C. Monday evening. The spacious living room was beautifully decorated with a profusion of pink roses.

Preceding the program the hostess served a delightful salad plate with a fruit drink. The group opened the meeting with the song, "Blessed Be The Name". Mrs. Melvin Booser read a passage of scripture and led in prayer.

The second chapter of "Separate the Church and State Now" by Dr. J. M. Dawson was studied. After a brief business session the meeting adjourned with prayer by Mrs. Gussie Hutchison. Eight members attended.

LUNCHEON GIVEN IN HONOR OF POPULAR BRIDE ELECT

Miss Martha Wright, whose marriage to Mr. Hugh Bishop Hix, of Washington, D. C. will take place in early fall, was honored Tuesday at a luncheon given by Mrs. Claude Dorsey and Mrs. Sam Sawyer at the home of the former.

The bride theme of green and white was emphasized in the dining room and living room decorations. The dining table was covered with a handsome white linen cloth and held for its central ornament a beautiful centerpiece filled with white chrysanthemums interspersed with delicate greenery. At the base of the centerpiece there was a lovely arrangement of white all-hearts and fern. Two attractive nosegays of small white flowers completed the table decoration.

The living room mantle was unusually beautiful with a huge bouquet of white glads, chrysanthemums and dwarf zinnias tied with a bow of white satin ribbon. Each small table at which guests were seated held a nosegay of green and white flowers as a centerpiece. The dining table was decorated with a white cloth and a white ribbon. BIRTHDAY PARTY HONORS

MISS JUDY PINCKARD

Little Miss Judy Pinckard celebrated her 11th birthday with a lawn party at her home Tuesday evening.

The table bearing the birthday cake was uniquely and attractively decorated. By the use of streamers, animal crackers and lighted candles the appearance of a merry-go-round was formed. Sandwiches and drinks were served, and the cutting of the cake followed.

Those attending were Judy Pinckard, Janice Lowery, Cornelia Ellis, Lela Sawyer, Janice Pick, Mary Ann Clark, Judith Larkins, Mary Jo Bryan, Linda Smith, Beekie and Marlene Pinckard, Brantley, Tommy Whitman and Tom Esay, Jr., Troy, Donald Bowdoin, Mack Wise and Fred Tillman.

Mrs. J. N. Wallace, Mrs. Mack Sawyer, of New Brockton; Mrs. Weyth Wallace and daughters, Carroll and Betty, of Pearl River, N. Y.; and Susanne Hayes were guests of Dr. and Mrs. Hayes at their summer home at Sunnyside, Fla. last week.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

By DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

SCRIPTURE, Psalms 81: 19-14; 69: 12, 13; 130: 1-6

EXPOSITIONAL Reading: Job 37: 14

Singing, Shining

Lesson for August 21, 1949

EVERY ATOM OF THE UNIVERSE

said Calvin, sparkles with the glory of God. That is our thought for this week: in the created universe we can see the God who is more wonderful than all his works. The selected Psalms express four themes in existence aspects of God's creative power.

Psalm 81 brings out the glory of man, made to be master of the earth; Psalm 19: 1-6 listens to the majestic music of sun and stars; Psalm 130: 1-6 is a prayer for mercy as a farmer sees it, in terms of sun, rain and crops; Psalm 104, the psalm of praise, celebrates God's glory in all things great and small.

Mystery THESE inspired Psalmists saw a high truth: Nature is for man use, in part, but it has also a value, a beauty and a splendor all its own; and it is one of the things which we can know God. What is true of nature is true, far more, of the God who created all things. One of the thoughts suggested to their minds was the mystery of nature.

Even today, with all that science has discovered, there is mystery in the most elementary facts of existence. What is light? What is life? What is energy? Where did it come from and what is the destiny of it all?

A common gross belief performs miracles that chemistry has not yet initiated. The mystery of nature suggests the deeper mystery of nature's God.

Power WE ARE beginning now to realize, even better than the Psalmists could, how much energy there is in nature. We have seen tragic evidence of the atom's power. Now we have also found that while energy cannot be destroyed, it cannot be created by us, though it constantly changes form.

As the water in a power station which has run through a turbine will not climb back up to turn the turbine again, so the whole universe (they tell us) is in the process of running down.

But how was the universe born, how was energy born, in the first place? How was the universe, so to speak, wound up? Science does not profess to know; but religious answers by faith: in the beginning, God . . .

Beauty THE writer of Psalm 104 was well aware that some parts of nature are useless to man; but he rejoiced in them none the less. Few of his neighbors had any use for whales, for example, but he takes delight in the whale (he calls him Leviathan) just playing in the ocean. St. Augustine, in the same mood, says somewhere about things like waves and spiders that if we could forget that they bite, we would be greatly awed by their beauty and the perfection of their mechanism. Indeed, St. Augustine, in one of his prayers, calls God "Pulchritudo." Beauty. Just as God is The Truth and The Good, so he is The Beautiful.

Law THE writers of these nature-Psalms (especially 19 and 104) were impressed by another fact about nature: its regularity. You can count on the sunrise, you always know which order the seasons will follow. Even things like earthquakes and tornadoes, which seem pretty unpredictable, follow laws of their own. Science has now shown this to be true on a cosmic scale. The stuff of the universe is woven, Mystery, Power, Beauty. Law: All nature, not only the stars, shines with all these—and as Addison says, "Forever singing as they shine. The hand that made us is divine."

Boy Scouts Pick Historic Site For Jamboree

NEW YORK.—The Boy Scouts of America has selected Valley Forge, Pa., for its second national scout jamboree in 1950. Dr. Arthur Schuck, chief scout executive of the organization, announced.

Over 30,000 Boy Scouts from every state and all U. S. territories will camp together from June 30 to July 6, 1950 on the site notable as the winter encampment of George Washington and his Continental army from Dec. 19, 1777 to June 19, 1778.

Valley Forge park is owned, maintained and preserved by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. An invitation to hold the jamboree there was received from Governor James H. Duff by the Boy Scouts of America and accepted by its national executive board, Dr. Schuck announced.

Will Climax Crusade

The national jamboree will be the climax of the Boy Scouts' two-year crusade to "Strengthen the arm of liberty."

Gov. Duff's invitation to the Boy Scouts was accepted after a dozen sites in all sections of the United States were inspected by the engineering service of the Boy Scouts of America.

Gov. Duff's invitation addressed to Dr. Schuck follows:

"On behalf of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the Valley Forge park commission, I wish to extend to the Boy Scouts of America a cordial invitation to hold their jamboree at Valley Forge park during the summer of 1950 at such time as their executive may elect."

"I am fully acquainted with the Boy Scouts' program for the year 1950—to 'crusade to strengthen the arm of liberty'—and it was my privilege last February in an address at Gettysburg to sponsor the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. I can visualize no more appropriate location for its climax than Valley Forge where

Hamsters Build New Industry On Gulf Coast

NEW ORLEANS.—A new Gulf Coast industry is being built around a small four-legged furry animal with a big name.

The week-eyed little fellow commonly known as the hamster, but to the scientific-minded the proper name is Mesocricetus auratus.

He looks like a cross between a field mouse, a guinea pig and a monkey.

With two pairs a breeder within a year may raise 100,000 and with the animals selling at $3 to $15 a dozen this can be a lucrative business.

The slow-eyed light golden brown rodent's four feet look like miniature human hands. On them he can scurry backward almost as fast as forward as he darts around his little cage.

The hamster first was found in the early 1930s by an explorer excavating near Aleppo, Syria. He shipped a mother and eight hamsters to London, where scientists immediately became interested.

Speed Laboratory Work

Because the warm blooded animal reacts to serums in 10 to 14 days—a much shorter period than is necessary for rats and guinea pigs—laboratory work can be speeded. The hamster is subject to all the human ills that affect rats and guinea pigs and is highly favored by scientists.

The first hamsters shipped to the United States were sent to the U. S. Marine hospital at Cavite, La., the nation's only institution for the treatment of leprosy. Today they are to be found in virtually every important medical laboratory and medical school.

Hides His Food

The hamster stands about five inches high on his hind hands and likes to stand and brush at his nose with both front hands prior to eating. He is fond of hiding and usually builds a small den of straw or hay in a corner of a cage. There he stores part of his food and hides his young at the approach of danger.

Hamsters eat sparingly of dog food, poultry pellets and green vegetables and frequently store little bits of food in the pouch behind their soft fur and their baby-like hands they seem to appreciate affection and become quite tame when handled. They are free of odor, have neither lice nor fleas and are subject to no ills of their own.

Word of blessings bestowed by the vision spread over the Roman city of 100,000 population and out into the country.

The Communists wheeled in to action with a debunking mission. The militia moved in a week ago to break up crowds blocking traffic on a main international highway running past the shop.

The official Communist newspaper Santea gave this version of what happened: "Reactionary" elements at night washed the windows on the inside with kerosene. When sunbeams hit the oil spectrum in daylight all the colors of the rainbow were reflected and mass suggestion did the rest."

The hamster first was found in the early 1930s by an explorer excavating near Aleppo, Syria. He shipped a mother and eight hamsters to London, where scientists immediately became interested.

Speed Laboratory Work

Because the warm blooded animal reacts to serums in 10 to 14 days—a much shorter period than is necessary for rats and guinea pigs—laboratory work can be speeded. The hamster is subject to all the human ills that affect rats and guinea pigs and is highly favored by scientists.

The first hamsters shipped to the United States were sent to the U. S. Marine hospital at Cavite, La., the nation's only institution for the treatment of leprosy. Today they are to be found in virtually every important medical laboratory and medical school.

Hides His Food

The hamster stands about five inches high on his hind hands and likes to stand and brush at his nose with both front hands prior to eating. He is fond of hiding and usually builds a small den of straw or hay in a corner of a cage. There he stores part of his food and hides his young at the approach of danger.

Hamsters eat sparingly of dog food, poultry pellets and green vegetables and frequently store little bits of food in the pouch behind their soft fur and their baby-like hands they seem to appreciate affection and become quite tame when handled. They are free of odor, have neither lice nor fleas and are subject to no ills of their own.

Word of blessings bestowed by the vision spread over the Roman city of 100,000 population and out into the country.

The Communists wheeled in to action with a debunking mission. The militia moved in a week ago to break up crowds blocking traffic on a main international highway running past the shop.

The official Communist newspaper Santea gave this version of what happened: "Reactionary" elements at night washed the windows on the inside with kerosene. When sunbeams hit the oil spectrum in daylight all the colors of the rainbow were reflected and mass suggestion did the rest."

Doodlings on Cliffs Puzzle Archaeologists

LAS VEGAS, NEV.—Archaeological sleuths are facing a perplexing "whodunit."

The mystery concerns numerous doodlings found on the steep cliffs and rock-strewn floor of nearby Keyhole canyon in the heart of the Mojave desert.

Two diversified schools have their own solution, but both agree these latest finds of the primitive art of leaving a mark, date back at least 1,000 years.

The doodles, or petroglyphs—as the more technical folk call them—have intrigued archaeologists and students of Indian lore ever since their discovery.

One school, headed by Dr. George Baldwin, archaeologist with the national park service, says the work of the Pataiyans who disappeared from Nevada culture around 1200 A.D.

On the other hand, Dr. Robert Fenon of Boulder City, Nev., contends the petroglyphs are the work of the "little men." The "little men," Dr. Fenon asserts, were perfectly formed midgets about 3 feet tall, who were the leading

Reverence Cannot Be Measured Nor Can You Purchase It

Efficient service is one thing—but service based on a sympathetic understanding of conditions and economy needs is quite another.

Here you will find service that money alone cannot purchase—the type of service that not only represents perfection in every detail—but that will leave lasting and precious memories.
